LOUIS OVERBEY IS CAPTURED BY OFFICERS TODAY

Negro, Who Shot His Sweetheart, Arrested in Row-landtown.

Patrolman Owen Had Close Call Last Night.

WOUNDED WOMAN WILL DIE

After a night of freedom, Louis Overbey, alias Jefferson, colored, was arrested this morning in a house in Rowlandtown by Patrolmen Roder and Rice. Overbey made no resistance to his arrest, as the two patrolmen slipped in on him unawares. Overbey was in a house on Atkins avenue when the police were given the tip this morning. He was taken to the police station and was later locked up in the county jail on a charge of malicious shooting, although it is probable the charge will be changed to murder.

Overbey asserts he shot the woman because she threatened his life several days ago. He said he thought she intended carrying out her threats and he beat her to it.

Apparently without cause Louis Overbey, alias Jefferson, colored, shot and fatally wounded Daisy Stanton, colored, yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock near Ninth and Boyd streets. The woman is at Riverside hospital and is not expected to recover. The bullet entered her right side below the ribs and cut the intestines, besides she died internally. Overbey escaped after the shooting.

When seen yesterday the woman and Overbey were walking together by the side of the building of the Co-hankus Manufacturing company. Overbey suddenly drew his pistol and fired. The Stanton woman fell in a heap, while Overbey stood over her body and snatched the pistol several more times, but it failed to explode. Then he turned and walked back towards Eighth street to an alley, and then began running.

The woman was still conscious, and was carried to Riverside hospital in the patrol wagon, where an operation was performed. She is a cook and lived on Ninth street between Harris and Boyd streets. She and Overbey were sweethearts. Overbey is a young negro, and his father lives in Calio.

Patrolman's Experience.
Last night Patrolmen Goureaux, Owen and Vick were searching for him. His home on North Tenth street was surrounded, when the police heard someone crawl over a fence. Patrolman Owen crept down in the shadow of the fence, and in the darkness he saw the form of a man, about the size of Overbey. The man said: "Is that you Louis?" Patrolman Owen answered "Yes." "Well, everything is all right," the negro responded. Patrolman Owen raised up and called to the man to halt, but he ran. He proved to be Henry Thomas, colored.

Thomas ran into his house and drew a Winchester rifle of 44 calibre on Patrolman Owen twice, but each time the policeman knocked it up, and was locked up for flourishing a gun. He was fined $50 and costs in police court this morning. His story was that he and Overbey, alias Jefferson, were on bad terms, and he did not recognize the policeman.

Artie Ford Sprains Ankle.
Little Cypress, Ky., Feb. 13. (Special.)—Artie Ford, 16 years old, sprained his left ankle severely last night when a horse he was riding slipped and fell. Ford's ankle was caught under the horse's body. Dr. E. R. Goodloe dressed the injury and Ford will be out in about a week, it is thought.

Purchases at Mayfield.
Paducah tobacco men purchased 82 hogheads of the 1907 crop of tobacco at Mayfield this morning. Mr. Oscar Hank bought 61 hogheads for the American Snuff company and Mr. W. B. Kennedy purchased 21 hogheads. The prices ranged from $5 to $7 a hundred pounds. The 1908 crop of the weed is being handled at Mayfield, but has not yet been put on the market.

Train Robbers Captured.
Lexington, Ky., Feb. 13.—Officers have just captured a gang of thirteen men at Paintsville, Johnson county, who, it is charged, have been systematically robbing the C. & O. railroad there for many months, resulting in heavy losses. Many cars have been broken open and their contents stolen. The gang has been operating several months, and not only the railroad company but many stores have been burglarized. It is believed the same men are responsible.

Industrial Development of West Kentucky Shows Promising Signs of New Awakening During Year

Grand Rivers Again Attracts Attention as Possible Steel Producing Center—West Ky. Coal Operations.

Grand Rivers, the dream of Tom Lawson in his younger days, is again showing life and interesting "folks." Two weeks ago a steel expert representing eastern capitalists spent several days in inspecting the site and the old furnace and ore beds in the neighborhood for his employers, and from reports made to local people whom he knew it is among the probable things that something may yet be made of the town.

The expert, who is also a geologist, said that in his opinion steel can be manufactured at Grand Rivers more cheaply than at Pittsburgh. He claimed that iron ore beds in abundance are near at hand and the ore can be transported to the old plant at Grand Rivers for five cents a ton, by running railroad lines from the beds to the river. He expressed himself as enthusiastic over the proposition and said that he would report favorably on it.

Opening Coal Mines.
In addition to the million and a quarter dollars the West Kentucky Coal company is preparing to expend in Paducah, constructing a fleet of 500 barges, the company has appropriated quite a sum to be used in opening two new mines on its properties at Sturgis. The two mines are near Wheatcroft and are in the heart of what is conceded to be the lowest sulphur and the highest heat unit coal region in Kentucky, and is located on property recently purchased, a tract known as the Caney Fork.

It will require 18 months to open these new mines. When they are ready for the operation the company will have a capacity of 5,000 tons a day, and its plans comprehend opening other mines until its capacity is from 8,000 to 10,000 tons a day. This will make the company easily the greatest producers in western Kentucky.

The company some time ago abandoned its retail depots and markets its coal to the wholesale trade and river trade only. It has plants at Paducah, Memphis, the mouth of White river, Greenville, Miss., Vicksburg, Baton Rouge and Donaldsonville, La., and is opening one at New Orleans. Through these channels its coal is marketed to steamboats, plantations and manufacturing industries.

The company owns 32,000 acres of coal lands near Sturgis, and has five locomotives, one a new 80-ton giant, and has recently placed an order for another of the same type. Its principal offices are in Paducah, with many of its executive officers here.

G. Mix, city marshal of Murray, returned to his home this morning.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD BOY GETS AWAY WITH LARGE SUM OF MONEY FROM HIS HOME

"I took $200 and left the old folks $60," was the statement made Chief Collins by Raymond Finney, 12 years old. Finney was caught at the Union station yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock by Patrolman Camper Jones when the youngster purchased a ticket to Memphis and flashed a large roll of bills. In fact, the boy took the $200 from Lee Kurts, of Ledbetter, and did not leave a cent.

Finney was accused by Kurts five years ago from the Union Rescue mission and was given a home. The boy was a good worker, but refused to attend school. Several times he has started to leave home, but was persuaded to return. Yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock the boy opened the drawer to a bureau and took out the $200 in bills and tied with a string. He came to Paducah on the boat, and was at the Union station about 4 o'clock. He wanted to purchase a ticket to Memphis, when Patrolman Jones realized the boy was too young to have so much money.

He was taken in charge and carried to the police station, where the lad confessed. When taken in charge he had spent only $3 and the $197 was found in his pockets. Kurts arrived in Paducah this morning and will not prosecute the lad, but will endeavor to have him sent to the reform school.

This morning Finney was taken before County Judge Lightfoot, and he was ordered sent to the reform school for six years.

BANK CLEARINGS INCREASED OVER WEEK PRECEDING

Clearings this week, $981,144
Clearings last week, 722,835

Bank clearings this week, with one holiday, were $158,000 more than last week, and were in excess of the figures two years ago. Counter business at the banks was active, as this indicates. Tobacco movement continues the feature, and the greater part of this money is going to the farmers. Tobacco prices are ruling satisfactorily, and the weed is moving freely.

Retail trade is between seasons, and is a little dull. Merchants' reports of clearance sales reflect a better condition than a year ago. Some spring stuffs are moving already quite freely.

Wholesalers expressed themselves as satisfied with business and collections are improving.

The best bit of news that has come out in weeks is the announcement of the decision of the West Kentucky Coal company to build a fleet of barges here. The work will require five years to complete and will give employment to from 125 to 150 men, and represent an expenditure of $1,200,000.

WILL MAKE EFFORT TO GET NORMAL SCHOOL

Members of the Woman's club have taken up the prospect of Paducah securing the western normal school, should its location be changed from Bowling Green, and every member is heartily in favor of making an attempt to secure the school. It is the intention of the club to secure from Prof. J. C. Crabbe, state school superintendent, the conditions upon which the school will be removed, and then begin work to enlist the co-operation of the Commercial club, and every other organization. Owensboro is making a strong fight for the school, and other towns are in the race. Inquiries have been sent to the state officials, asking what bonus or how much land will be necessary for the school. When the data is received it is the intention to begin work in earnest to secure the school for Paducah.

MODEL OF D. A. R FOUNTAIN SHOWN BY LORADO TAFT

A model of the D. A. R. Memorial Fountain for Paducah is among Lorado Taft's exhibits at the Midwinter Art Exhibition in Chicago. Mr. Taft has six pieces, among them a colossal figure of George Washington for the University of the state of Washington, at Seattle, but the Paducah fountain has had more compliments than all the others from Mr. Taft's brother artists and architects. The figure of the Indian is very striking, full of dignity, poise and power; and the fountain will be something of which Paducah can be justly proud.

Dr. Della Caldwell, who is chairman of the D. A. R. fountain committee, has received a letter from Mr. Taft in regard to the fountain. He wrote from Greenville, S. C., where he had been lecturing, and said he would go on Thursday to the quarry in Georgia, where the base of the fountain is being carved. He thought it would require more than a month for the carving of the figure, which is being done at Mr. Taft's studio in Chicago.

COOPER TRIAL TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK WITH THIS JURY

State Decides Not To Question Competency of Two Jurors.

Witness Who Saw Tragedy in Nashville.

REFUSES TO SAY ANYTHING

Nashville, Feb. 13.—Prosecutor McCann announced he wouldn't prosecute any jurors and the jury will be sworn and testimony will begin Tuesday in the trial of Colonel and Robin Cooper and former Sheriff Sharp for the murder of Hon. Edward Carmack.

A New Witness.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 13.—A new witness in the Cooper case has been discovered; W. G. Bray, of Missouri. He is the mysterious traveling man who is said to have important knowledge in this case.

Bray Refuses to Talk.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 13.—W. G. Bray, president of the Bank of Senash, Mo., who was an eye-witness of the killing of ex-Senator Edward G. Carmack, editor of the Nashville Tennessean at Nashville, on Nov. 9, was in St. Louis on business yesterday. He admits that he witnessed the shooting, but will not give any details, as he says his business frequently calls him to Tennessee and he fears to offend either side, as it might result in bodily harm to him.

"I was in Nashville on Nov. 9," he said, "and witnessed the shooting. I got there about 9 o'clock in the morning. I do not care to discuss the case and will not make a statement unless compelled to. I only spoke about it twice, once with a man on a train, whom I afterwards found out was a Texas lawyer. We discussed the one-sided feature of the story so far as presented. I also answered a letter from a minister who wrote me in regard to the affair; and afterward found out that both interviews had been distorted. Since then I have been besieged by telephone calls and letters from the attorneys on both sides.

When asked if he had heard any of the words between Carmack and the Coopers which preceded the shooting, Bray refused to answer this question. He said he did not know either Col. Duncan B. Cooper or his son, Robin J. Cooper, who did the shooting, personally. He had met Carmack once in Memphis, he said, but that was the extent of their acquaintance. He denied having gone to Nashville to see the state's attorney, but admitted having exchanged communications with both sides.

Besides being president of the bank, Bray is in the grain and mule business. His trip to Nashville at the time of the shooting was in connection with the grain business.

Hubbard's Lawyer Absent.

Because of the absence of attorney representing Ed Hubbard, the case of Ed Hubbard to out R. B. Wilks as license inspector was not argued this morning in circuit court, and Judge Reel did not give any decision. No date was set but the arguments will be heard some day next week and a decision given.

EDWIN LIGHTFOOT LOCAL CHAMPION

Will Represent Paducah at Inter-High Contest.

Excellent Orations Were Delivered at High School Last Night By the Pupils.

HOPETOWN CHOOSES ORATOR

Paducah High will be represented in the Inter-High school oratorical contest at Madisonville next Friday night by Edwin Lightfoot, who was declared the winner last night at the primary oratorical contest. His subject, "The Evil of the Hour," was handled splendidly, and already his friends are predicting that he will win the championship of western Kentucky at the debate. Second honors went to Miss Clara Smith, who gave a splendid discourse on "Woman, the Home Builder." The judges stated she needed more than commendation, as the line drawn between her and the winner was a faint one.

The stage was a pretty sight with the five young orators, and the spirit was made more fascinating by the High school boys who gave yells for the orators, members of the faculty and school. The first speaker introduced by Prof. W. H. Sugg was Edward Mitchell, the winner of the honor last year. He used "The Silent Brigade" as his subject. Mr. Mitchell took the Kentucky night riders and discussed their origin as an outcome of the tobacco war. He closed with an appeal to let every true blue Kentuckian wipe out the blot on the state.

Miss Allie D. Foster was the second speaker, "The Old South" being her subject. Miss Foster discussed the noble sons of the nation, whose birthplace has been the sunny south. It was an oration well finished on the subject of the south.

Mr. Marvin Sills spoke on "Kentucky, the Home of Statesmen," and made a favorable impression. His oration treated of the greatness of Kentucky statesmen, and throughout he had a kindly vein of humor.

"Woman, the Home Builder," was the splendid oration of Miss Clara Smith, who was awarded second honors. She treated of the strength of woman in the home, and how the home is incomplete without man's better half. Throughout her address Miss Smith was paid rapt attention by the audience. She had a good delivery and she could be heard easily

In all parts of the house. The rule of Mammou was the substance of "The Evil of the Hour," which was used by the winner, Edwin Lightfoot. Beginning back in medieval history he pointed to Greece, Rome and Spain as examples of the ruin of some great nation by some defect. The moral of their fall was used to point out the friction in our own country, and the disregard of law and patriotism in the mad rush for the dollar. Mr. Lightfoot told of how Mammou had stalked into legislative halls, crept into the judicial department of the civic life, and after a warning of its evils, gave as the remedy the forsaking of the chase after the dollar, and a return to the principles of honesty and patriotism.

The judges were: Judge E. W. Bagby, Attorney J. Campbell Flournoy and Mr. Cooke Husbands. That there was some difficulty in selecting the winner was evident by the length of time the judges took to decide. In a graceful speech, Mr. Flournoy announced the winner, and paid a tribute to all of the speakers, saying it would have been suitable to the judges if all five could have been sent as representatives.

The winner is the son of County Judge R. T. Lightfoot and is a chip off the old block. He is almost as dramatic a speaker as his father, cool, self-possessed and made his gestures gracefully, a point that did much to win the decision for him. He is a member of the sophomore class and his schoolmates and friends are confident he will carry off the honors.

Between the orations Miss Madeleine Cooke played several musical numbers.

The contest of the Oratorical League of the High schools of western Kentucky will take place next Friday night at Madisonville. Representatives from the High schools at Henderson, Owensboro, Hopkinsville, Madisonville, Pembroke and Paducah will compete for the honors. A large delegation of High school rooters is expected to accompany Mr. Lightfoot and cheer for him.

Hopetown Champion.
Harry Cote won at Hopkinsville. His subject was "Jamestown, Yorktown and Appomattox."

Words by FRED. GALLAGHER.

Music by Wm. RALPH.

1. Eyes tell a tale when love is true, Words seem poor and weak.

EDITORIAL.....1234 12345
Do you think you'll get a funny one?

Won't anything stop that Oklahoma legislature

O. Senator Stephenson's nomination cost him only $107,691.

Abe Lincoln was a poor boy, but he never had to eat as many disagreeable things as have been pressed on the digestion of William H. Taft.

The rehearing of the contest for the chairmanship of the Calloway county committee means that the decision will be reversed and the element, of which the Murray Ledger is the mouthpiece, will win.

Tomorrow's the day when people, whose most prominent characteristics are humorously and barbarously portrayed in the store windows, will have the opportunity to see themselves as others see them.

The state school commission undertakes to define a university. If the board will just adopt some pure food regulations and compel trustees to label their institutions according to the law, the country will be wiser.

It is gratifying to observe that High school pupils have become so imbued with the growing spirit of the times, that they discarded worn-out themes of ancient days and chose subjects for their orations dealing with modern civic and domestic problems.

If the steel trust magnates "manufactured the Wall street panic to hoodwink the president," it proved a clever deception; for it fooled all the rest of us into thinking we are right now just recovering from a panic, and they deceived themselves into closing down their mills for six months, and reopening them only to sell steel many dollars cheaper than they did before.

"DESPONDENCY."

Of the 10,852 cases of suicide recorded for 1908, despondency is credited with 5,318 and "unknown" with 1,541, while insanity claims 319, infidelity 778, ill health 718, business depression 662, liquor 536 and disappointment in love 519. But every newspaper man knows how often the mantle of charity is thrown over the family skeleton when suicide opens the closet door, and "despondency" or "no cause for the rash act is known," gently intervenes between prying public eyes and the scandal of a home.

BUILDING GRAVES.

New York presents two peculiar phases of our modern industrial system. Grave diggers demand that they be allied with the building trades, and fifty men, architects of their own fortunes, in discouragement ask to be auctioned off to whomsoever will employ them.

ing so often the funeral oration about the "mansion not built with hands, eternal in the heavens," conceived the notion that in some way their trade is connected with the building of that edifice. As to the other poor devils, they are failures at building, too. They are tired of strife and competition. Among them are college students. Maybe some of them are philosophers. Is there any of us who sometimes does not pause and wonder what it all is worth? These men paused too long; they lost heart; they were overcome with the realization of the ultimate futility of the struggle. One day at a time is a good motto. If you look ahead you will be discouraged; if you look back you will become transfixed.

But, ahem—to return to the original thought, how easy it is to moralize about grave diggers and failures; so many successful men are digging their own graves.

IN DEFENSE OF THE COURTS.

Our champion having been defeated by a decision of the court of appeals, must we now come to the defense of the court? It seems so; for a contemporary attacks the court, ignorantly, perhaps, but certainly unjustly. It accuses the court of holding Walters ineligible, because "he had not proven himself eligible by the presentation of an accepted bond."

Now, the court of appeals did no such thing. In the first place furnishing bond is not a matter of eligibility, but of formal qualification after eligibility is proven. Eligibility goes to such conditions as age, residence, citizenship, etc. The court of appeals held that George Walters never had proven himself eligible.

It is a matter of simple common sense that one man cannot by procedure in civil court take anything away from another man without first proving his own superior right of possession, be it an office or anything else. George Walters went into court and proved that J. J. Dorian was ineligible to hold the office of city treasurer. He proved that he was duly elected in 1908 for three years; but Dorian was elected the year before for four years, had received his certificate and qualified. So far as Judge Reed or the court of appeals or anybody else know, Mr. Walters may or may not have been eligible himself to succeed Mr. Dorian. It was up to Walters to prove that he was eligible when he was elected, and on that point Dorian's attorneys demurred. They then carried the case to the court of appeals, insisting that Judge Reed had erred in not sustaining the demurrer, and on every question of practice, on the usurpation of authority by Maurice McIntyre and the interference of the city solicitor the lower court was reversed.

What amounts in this case to a mere formality, is a matter of great importance in the practice of courts. Suppose an ineligible person had been elected last fall and contested for the office of Mr. Dorian, and the court of appeals had awarded him the office without requiring him to prove his own eligibility. By this illustration it is seen that slovenly practice in our courts is as bad as actual corruption—or worse; for in the latter case we have a drastic and efficient remedy.

It may be that shrewd attorneys for private interests in our legislatures have made technical loop holes in our laws for their escape, and our system of justice is becoming cumbersome and oppressive, but the ends of justice will not be reached sooner or the existing evils of the system remedied by encouraging loose methods of procedure.

CAIRO'S NEGLIGENCE.
Cairo papers are extracting much puerile satisfaction out of roasting Paducah on account of the quarantine under which Cairo was placed. When the Cairo delegation left here after the conference a week ago, the officials promised to send daily reports to Paducah to show officials here how the fight against the epidemic is progressing. They have sent no reports, and yesterday the board of health decided to continue the quarantine. This added fuel to the indignation of the Cairo press and this morning the Bulletin says:

"Paducah's mayor wouldn't talk to Cairo's mayor yesterday about the quarantine. It is a good sign. Being ashamed of a thing is the first symptom of repentance and goes a long way toward getting forgiveness."

As a matter of fact, Mayor Parsons did call up, and as soon as Mayor Smith was notified, he made an appointment for a talk at noon.

SOME STORIES AROUND TOWN

"I had a new question submitted to me a few days ago," said a prominent young attorney today. "A client who is a Christian Scientist, came to me with an account to collect for treatments given one of her patients. The memorandum showed charges for three treatments and three or four 'absent treatments.' The patient was willing to pay for the regular treatments, but balked when it came to the absent ones, and the Scientist wanted to know if they could be collected by law."

"What did you tell her?" some one asked.

"I told her if such treatments could be collected by law, I thought I should start in giving absent advice to some of my clients, and soon build up a big practice of that sort."

BUILDING GRAVES.

New York presents two peculiar phases of our modern industrial system. Grave diggers demand that they be allied with the building trades, and fifty men, architects of their own fortunes, in discouragement ask to be auctioned off to whomsoever will employ them.

It as the Scientists will for their absent treatments."

A good story is told by his friends about a young Paducahan, who was married recently in Chicago. He had not taken any one into his confidence, but some little, amusing incidents that happened two or three days before he left the city were sufficient to apprise any one that the young man had something unusual on his mind. He purchased a handsome suit of clothes a few weeks since, probably for the occasion, and sent it to a local dyer to have it dyed. It was ruined in the process. Then he purchased another suit, and the day before he left inadvertently leaned against a red-hot stove and burned the tail off. The next day he went down to buy another suit, and in changing his papers from the old to the new suit left a letter, containing his railroad ticket and Pullman reservation, on the desk of the clothier, and did not discover his loss until he was on the train, and it was too late then to get them. To cap the climax, when he got to Chicago, he found that his intended was snow-bound and would be a day late for the wedding. His friends, believing in the law of compensation, think these incidents augur bliss for the couple.

His request went to the appropriations committee, which is now framing the sundry civil appropriation bill and will be acted on in that measure.

LET EXCLUSION STAND.

Montana Would Protest Against Repeal of the Act.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 13.—A memorial to congress praying against the repeal of the Asiatic exclusion act was introduced in the house by Representative Norton, who moved that it be referred to the committee on labor. This was done, but not until a Democratic member from Madison county had read a pseudo telegram signed "T. R." dated Washington inveighing against action on this and other measures on the ground that it

CAN EAT SAUSAGES AND FRESH BREAD

Or Any Other Foods Without Fear of Stomach Distress or Indigestion.

When your stomach is weak or lacking in gastric juice, anything that you eat, no difference what it is, will sour on your stomach, raise the bile and acids to cover your food like oil on water, causing indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach nervousness and belching of sour poisons, which produce foul odors, nasty taste, bilious headache, heartburn, intestinal griping and make you an object of misery. This is stomach trouble which can not be overcome with ordinary digestive medicines. It is caused by fermentation of your food, which will be remedied at once by Pape's Diapiesin, a preparation pleasant to take and as harmless as candy, though it will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause of your trouble. If the stomach is sour and unhealthy, your food because of the indigestion and gas on stomach and other miseries. Pape's Diapiesin is an Antacid, most powerful digestive and thorough regulator for weak stomachs. These Triangles will digest any kind of food you eat and will cleanse the stomach and intestines in a natural way, which makes you feel fine five minutes afterwards.

Any good Pharmacy here will supply you with a case of Pape's Diapiesin for fifty cents. Just reading about this remarkable stomach preparation will not help. You should go now and get a case. Put your stomach in full health and by tomorrow you will forget the misery of stomach trouble. Your case is no different from many others. It isn't Stomach Nerves or Catarrh of the Stomach, or Gastritis, or Dyspepsia. It is Food rotting—Food Fermentation—that's all—and takes about five minutes to overcome.

BRETON TWO-STORY BEDS.

Many in Pensants' Huts Richly Carved and Ornamented.

The Breton peasant has some charming qualities courtesy, good humor, detachment from the prosaic side of life, but the virtue of cleanliness is not for him.

The cottages are frequently very dirty and the approach to them is sometimes over a pile of refuse. There is nothing of luxury in a cottage interior, but you may generally come on two things to beautify even the poorest. One is the white coil of its mistress (always spotless, however dirty anything else may be), and the other is the brass trimmings of the armchairs, usually polished to a degree of brightness that is positively dazzling. Some of these armchairs are really beautiful, with elaborately carved panels, and in many cases are heirlooms that have been in the family for generations. Then there are the beds—one of them, of which the mistress is very proud, will be modern with very coarse Nottingham lace curtains draped over it.

You give it a few complimentary words in order to satisfy its owner, but what you really want to see is the "fit-clos" in the far corner, and if it is a "fit-clos a deux etages" you are more than content. Some of these "fit-clos" are things of great beauty, like the armchairs, and the carvings on the sliding panels are enough to make a collector green with envy.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

CLOUDBURST PLAYS HAVOC.

Waters Sweep Down Rubio Canyon and One Probably Drowned.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 13.—Following a cloudburst in Rubio Canyon, at Pasadena, a terrific flood of water came down the canyon, carrying away the foundation of the Rubio canyon pavilion at the foot of the Mount Lowe incline railway, precipitated the building into a ravine and buried six people in the ruins. Up to a late hour all had been rescued excepting George Drew, a 5-year-old boy, who is probably dead. Part of the building was occupied by Fred Drew, agent of the Pacific electric railway, with his wife and four children. They were all carried into the canyon when the building collapsed. Drew was taken out with a badly injured back. Mrs. Drew sustained several broken bones and three of the children were rescued without having suffered serious injuries. The structure which gave way was the terminus of the Pacific electric line at the base of the Mount Lowe incline railway and included the depot, ticket office, waiting room, lunch room and dance hall and residence of the Drews. The railroad tracks which ran out on the platform were also carried down.

Exactly a month after the death of his wife he shot himself. Estevez had been in very low spirits since his wife died. His health showed signs of breaking down, and he engaged a resident physician to take him on daily walks and to keep him general company. When the physician was called away Estevez shot himself with another revolver he had bought.

It is thought that the thefts have been going on for two years.

THROAT TROUBLES WEAKEN THE SYSTEM.

A serious illness is often brought on by a neglected sore throat. All throat troubles invariably weaken the system and should not be allowed to go unchecked.

A gargle made with twelve drops of Sloan's Linctament in half a glass of water will break up a sore throat.

Sloan's Linctament is an excellent remedy for tonsillitis, croup, asthma and bronchitis. Applied freely to the outside of the throat and chest, it draws out the inflammation, reduces the swelling and relieves any soreness. Twelve drops of this Linctament in half a glass of water makes a splendid antiseptic gargle.

Mr. Albert W. Price, of Fredonia, Kans., writes:—"We have used Sloan's Linctament in the family for about a year, and find it an excellent relief for colds and hay fever attacks. Two drops of the Linctament in a teaspoonful of water will stop coughing and sneezing instantly."

Mr. L. T. Hurst, of Coatesville, Ind., R. R. No. 1, writes:—"I find your Linctament the best remedy I have ever tried for sore throat, either for horse or man. I once cured a case of sore throat on myself the second day and almost the first night, which had continued for over three weeks, under constant treatment of three physicians (I was traveling) and it was getting worse."

Home Course In Modern Agriculture

XII.—The Selection and Care of Farm Machinery

By C. V. GREGORY,

Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association

THE methods of farming followed today are made possible only by the use of modern labor saving machinery. The farm hand of today needs brains more than muscles. The ability to handle a complicated machine successfully is more valuable than the power to do a hard day's manual labor.

With the coming of improved machinery the problem of what to buy and what to get along without has become a serious one. The farmer has more money tied up in machinery than in any one thing besides his land. Having too much machinery is nearly as bad as having too little. What is needed is a wise selection.

It is always well to do a little figuring before buying a new machine. Dividing the cost of the implement by the number of years it may be reasonably expected to last will give the amount that must be charged to depreciation each year. Add to this an allowance for repairs, storage and each year's share of the interest, and you will have the yearly cost of the machine. A little further figuring will show whether the benefit received from it in a year will warrant this cost.

Machinery may be roughly divided into five classes—tillage, planting, haying, harvesting and miscellaneous. Of the many tillage implements there are none that are absolutely necessary on any farm. Among these are the plows. For the farmer on a quarter section sixteen inch riding plow will be all that is needed for the field work. In addition it may be well to have a cheap walking plow for plowing the garden, turning out potatoes and for use in case of an emergency. A gang plow requires too many horses to be practicable on the average 160 acre farm. On larger farms, where plenty of horses are available, a gang plow will save the time of an extra man. It is a good plan to have the plow supplied with two or three moldboards of different slants. A steep moldboard pulverizes the soil more and for this reason is a good thing to use on stubble land. On clover sod, however, a longer moldboard should be used in order to lessen the draft.

One of the most important tillage implements is the disk. No other machine will pulverize the soil so quickly or thoroughly. The use of a tongue truck—a small two wheeled arrangement—under the rear end of the tongue is of considerable advantage in taking the weight off the horses' necks. Solid wheel disks pulverize the ground more thoroughly than spindlers or cutaways.

A good harrow is a necessity on any farm. The flexible type is best for all conditions, as it gets down into the hollows and rides over trash better than will a solid frame harrow. Spring tooth harrows, rollers and weeders all have their special uses, but can hardly be said to be necessary on the average quarter section.

Next in order come the cultivators, and there are so many styles of these that choosing is a difficult matter. The most important part of the cultivator is the shovels. A happy medium is struck in the six shovel type. The shovels on this can be run deep enough to loosen the soil well the first two times over the field and can later be set shallow enough to avoid serious injury to the spreading roots. If you are in the corn business extensively enough to afford two sets of cultivators it is well to have special surface machines for the last two cultivations. Some companies make surface blades which can be attached in place of the shovels when so desired. In the hands of a careful man the two row cultivator does good and rapid work.

First in the line of planting machines come the seeders. While costing a little more at first, there is no better implement for sowing small grain than the disk drill. The disks cut through cornstalks and other trash, and the seed is deposited evenly and at a uniform depth. The resulting evenness of stand will cause an increased crop sufficient to pay the entire cost of the drill in a year or two.

In selecting a corn planter the runner type of furrow opener is preferable to the disk, since the latter is hard to guide. The essential point in planters, however, is the drop. If you are in the habit of grading your seed corn carefully so that the kernels are all about the same size the edge drop plates will give a more even stand than will the round hole drop. Planters in which the plates are turned by a chain from the axle and the wire used only to open the shoe are sure to drop every time than those in which all the work is done by the wire.

There are two haying implements that are absolutely essential, the mower and the rake. Be sure to pick a wide cut mower. Six feet is a good width. The extra draft amounts to little, and considerable time will be saved in going over the field.

Where much hay is made the old way of raking in bunches and piling it on to the wagon by hand is too slow and laborious. A much better plan is to rake the hay into windrows with a side delivery rake and gather it up with a hay loader. Where the hay is put in the barn a set of double harness forks will make short work of the unloading. If it is to be stacked some form of stacker will save a great deal of hard work.

The most important harvesting machine is the self blinder. The blinder is the most complicated machine on the farm and the one most likely to get out of order. In buying a blinder simplicity of construction, ease of adjustment and handiness of oiling are important points to look after. A tongue truck is an attachment that should go with every blinder. This is the only means of eliminating side draft that has yet been discovered. A tongue truck is rather expensive, but no are sore shoulders and necks on the horses at harvest time.

Where much stock is kept the corn blinder is a necessary implement. By cutting a large share of the corn and using it as a fodder or silage much feed is saved that would otherwise be wasted. About 40 per cent of the entire feeding value of the corn plant is in the stalk. When these are left standing in the field the greater part of this feed is wasted. The shocked fodder may be run through a shredder before feeding. This will break the corn and leave the stalks in the best shape to be fed or used for bedding.

One of the most important of the miscellaneous implements is the windmill. No farmer can afford to pump water for his stock by hand when the wind will do it for nothing after the mill has once been put up. In erecting a windmill be sure that it is put on a high enough tower so that surrounding trees or buildings will not cut off the wind. A mill which is geared back so that the wheel makes three revolutions or so to one stroke of the pump will run in a lighter wind than will the straight geared type. A three legged tower is just as strong as a four and considerably cheaper.

A machine that is almost indispensable on a stock farm is the gasoline engine. The original cost of these engines is reasonable, and the amount required for fuel and repairs is small. With a gasoline engine to furnish the power to run a sheller and grinder feed can be cheaply and easily prepared for the stock. The engine will also saw wood. If you are fortunate enough to have any to saw, run the shingle cutter, grindstone, separator, churn and washing machine. It may also replace the windmill as a source of power for pumping.

In selecting a gasoline engine be sure to get one large enough to do the required work easily, remembering at the same time that where much light work is to be done a small engine will do it with much less gasoline than will be used by a large one. This objection to a large engine can be overcome to a large extent by so arranging the work that several light machines may be run at the same time. The most reliable type of engine is the four cycle, in which there are two revolutions of the flywheel to one explosion. The water system of cooling is the most efficient, though air cooled engines are all right for light work.

Another necessary machine of the stock farm is the manure spreader. Not only does this save a great deal of work, but it also applies the manure more evenly and will cover a greater amount of ground with a given quantity of manure. There should be little wood in a manure spreader, since it ruts out quickly.

Some girls are afraid to go downtown by themselves for fear a man may try to flirt with them.

There would be a greater demand for common sense if it were fashionable.

NOTICE.

I urgently request all persons indebted to me to make settlement before the first day of May, 1909, as I will after that date bring suit on every unpaid note and account due me. Now your account is to each of you a small matter, while the whole is to me very important. I shall deal with all alike; if you don't pay you may know that you will be sued, whatever your name or color may be. I hate to do this, but I am forced to it in self-defense. If you have not the money and will borrow it to pay me in full by the first day of March, 1909, I will deduct 10 per cent from your account, thereby paying the interest myself. Is this not as fair as any sane man can ask?

Both Doing Their Parts.
 A passer-by at Broad and Lombard streets, in Philadelphia, once heard the following dialogue between a laborer who was digging in a sewer and a stout, beaming lady with a capacious market basket on her arm.
 "Ah, good mornin' to you, Pat, said she, leaning over and looking into the pit. "And what are you doin'?"
 "Good mornin', Bridget," he replied, looking up. "I'm a-earnin' all-mony for yees. And what are you doin'?"
 "Sure, I'm spendin' it," replied Bridget airily, as she trotted off.—February Lippincott's.

Bell Stations Outnumber Independents Nearly TWO to ONE

To the national government, working through the department of commerce and labor, belongs the credit for having finally determined the official facts in the long disputed question as to the relative size of the Bell and Independent telephone interests of the United States.

The government figures for 1907 show 3,132,063 Bell stations and 2,986,515 independent stations or telephones. The independents have all along claimed over 4,000,000 stations, or fully 33 per cent more than they actually have.

The government figures do not make any attempt to classify the independents as between "Independent" and "Opposition" companies. As a matter of fact, of the so-called "Independents" fully 900,000, or 30 per cent, of the entire number form through sub-licensee or service arrangements part of the comprehensive Bell system, but in all other respects are independent, self-controlling organizations. At present over 1,100,000 independents or about 40 per cent of the total are thus affiliated with Bell lines.

With this very important adjustment made, an adjustment which the government statisticians obviously could not make, it will be found that instead of the Bell companies having but 145,000 more stations than the independents, the real figures are something like 4,000,000 for the Bell, against 2,150,000 for the independents, a ratio of nearly 2 to 1. The preponderance of Bell over independent stations may be better illustrated by the following comparison:

	1907.	1903.	Increase.	Per cent.
Bell system	4,000,000	1,350,000	2,650,000	196
Independents	2,150,000	1,000,000	1,150,000	115
Bell excess	1,850,000	350,000	1,500,000	...

In considering these figures, it should be borne in mind that the station statistics of the Bell and connecting system are all a matter of record at a central point, due to the fact that the instruments used by the Bell system are furnished by the American Telephone Co. Statistics kept by the Bell companies are as precise as figures of railroad earnings. Instruments used by the Bell companies are all given out from one source and are identical in type of construction. Therefore, the statistics of Bell telephone stations are as reliable as balance sheets or any other financial records.

The relative public utility of the Bell and Independent telephone interests is not measured by number of stations so much as by the fact that the Bell lines are one comprehensive and inter-communicating system operated under one general policy and connected with toll and long distance lines aggregating nearly 2,000,000 miles in length. The independents on the other hand are scattered companies and for the most part small associations or co-operative groups, having with a few conspicuous exceptions no relation with each other and only limited connection by local toll lines. The instruments and apparatus come from 30 to 40 different manufacturers. There is no uniform accounting system and there is no temptation to make the figures any smaller than they actually are. Furthermore, some independents report telephones (a single instrument) while others conform to the Bell custom and report stations (two instruments). To this extent the independent figures are unduly swelled, but there is no way of knowing how material this factor is.

The significant feature of the rapid telephone development of the United States during the last five years has been this quiet, steady affiliation with the American Telephone system of 900,000 independent stations. As a result, thousands of subscribers in the west have today what they have never before enjoyed—the advantage of connection with the only national telephone service in the country.
